

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1897.

EASTERN ADVERTISING OFFICE, 220 to 224 Temple Court, New York City R. Katz, Agent.A GOVERNMENT BUILDING FOR RENO.

The House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, have reported favorably on the bill authorizing the erection of Federal buildings at various places on the Pacific Coast, among which was a recommendation for an appropriation for Reno of $50,000.

It is considered that the recommendation of the committee next to insure the passage of the bill. Congressman Newlands has labored earnestly for this object, and it is now more than probable that a public building in Reno will be an assured fact.

The location of such a building will doubtless be a bone of contention, but it should not be. There are a number of sites in the central part of town, any one of which will certainly meet with the approval of the majority of the citizens, as a fine building in any convenient locality in town will be an ornament to the city and will encourage improvement in the immediate neighborhood.

With this in view, there should not be any clash, but the location should be chosen with the object of making the best showing possible, as well as a matter of convenience to the greater number.

It is true that the bill has not passed as yet, but a public building for Reno in which the postoffice, Surveyor-General's office United States District Attorney, and Marshall's office could be located, has been a project that has been favored by our people for some time, and it is now believed that the hope that has been so general will soon be realized.

THE PARDON OF WALTON.

The Board of Pardons in session at Carson granted a pardon to George Walton, sentenced in Storey county in 1895 to two years in the State Prison for being implicated in the attempted sale of a bogus gold brick. The Enterprise says that the action of the board in liberating Walton created considerable surprise on the Comstock.

The Enterprise, perhaps, is right. It sometimes is when not discussing politics, but if any Comstocker is surprised at the action of the board he will cease to wonder when he knows the facts. The complaining witness, John W. Eckley of the Bank of California, District Attorney Frank P. Langard Judge C. E. Mack, one of the attorneys who prosecuted Walton and the other the judge who sentenced him, petitioned the board to pardon him. Will the Enterprise publish these facts and relieve the minds of its readers?

MARK HANNA'S ASPIRATIONS.

Mark Hanna has developed into a Senatorial aspirant to succeed John Sherman, providing that the latter will accept the position of Secretary of State or Secretary of the Treasury in McKinley's Cabinet. If Mr. Sherman accepts the Cabinet appointment, Governor Bushnell of Ohio will appoint Sherman's successor for the unexpired term of two years. Joseph B. Foraker and Governor Bushnell are thoroughly friendly to Mr. McKinley, but are not very anxious to build up Mr. Hanna's personal prestige and power in Ohio's political field.

A conference is in progress at Canton, the result of which will probably involve the disposition of the two Cabinet positions and settle the future status of Mark Hanna in National politics.

AFTER a great amount of speculation over the California Senatorship Geo. C. Perkins was elected yesterday on the first ballot. The San Francisco Call has next to made itself ridiculous in its advocacy of Shortridge, but judging from the result of yesterday it was of little effect.

The Examiner on the other hand is doubtless jubilant over the fact that it aided materially in the defeat of Shortridge and the Funding bill and both events coming so near together will be about all the glory it can stand at one time.

A Washington dispatch says Senator Chandler has prepared a sensational report which he will present at the next meeting of the committee on naval affairs as a result of the committee's investigation into the matter of prices paid for armor plate. He dissects the recent report of Secretary Herbert and shows wherein estimates made by the Secretary as to a fair price for armor were entirely too high.

Eight hundred delegates of the Kansas State Convention of Silver Clubs met yesterday at Topeka and D. C. Tillotson was elected temporary chairman. Committees were formed and proceeded to business. The object of the convention as expressed by a resolution is to effect the union of all silver forces into one organization for the purpose of united political action.

Attorney General Harmon was asked yesterday about the probable action of the Government with respect to the Pacific roads now that the Funding bill has failed. Beyond a statement that some action would be taken within thirty days he declined to discuss the matter.

Major George S. Wilson died yesterday morning at Vancouver Barracks. He was Adjutant General of the Department of the Columbia.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

Johnson of California Makes a Pathetic Speech.

TELLS OF HIS EARLY LIFE.

Another Preference Class Created in the Employment of Government Officers.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—Little interest was manifested in the House today in the Speaker's decision of the point of order made yesterday by Dockery against Powers' motion to reconsider the Pacific Funding bill, made after the defeat of the bill. Immediately after reading the journal, the Speaker sustained the point of order, and the bill will not be recommitted.

Broun from the Committee on Reform in Civil Service called up the bill to amend the law, giving a preference to ex-union soldiers and sailors and their widows discharged on account of wounds or sickness contracted in the service.

After some debate the bill passed. While the bill was being debated a storm was brewing. Johnson asked for time to answer an article in the Record this morning from Maguire of California, the time being granted Johnson replied in a sensational, pathetic speech in which he admitted that he had been indicted in New York thirty years before, but said that he had gone to California and had paid back every dollar he owed.

His voice shook as he told of his early troubles, and he got a hearty round of applause. Johnson said: "If the gentleman from Wisconsin (Cooper) or the gentleman from California (Maguire) thinks I am cowardly let either repeat to me outside the chamber what he said inside, and their curiosity will be appeased."

Maguire arose to reply as soon as Johnson finished. "I never printed anywhere anything I was not willing to repeat before any man myself," began he.

He explained that he had desired to deliver the speech printed. The Speaker refused to give him time.

After Maguire concluded, Poole of New Hampshire moved to expunge Maguire's speech from the Record. Poole said he had known Johnson from childhood.

There was great excitement on the floor, and a personal collision was feared. Friends tried to adjust the matter.

McMillan moved to refer the whole matter to the Committee on rules. The motion was lost by 88 to 123.

Poole's motion was carried without a division.

Towne moved to strike from the Record that portion of Johnson's remarks containing the attack on Hearst. It was defeated.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

George C. Perkins was elected yesterday to succeed himself as United States Senator for California at Sacramento on the first ballot.

A magazine of the Pennsylvania Torpedo Company near Shamokin, Pa., exploded yesterday morning and completely demolished the building. It is thought at least six men are killed, but nothing is to be found of their bodies.

Without any display and at an expense of less than five dollars Alva Adams was inaugurated Governor of Colorado at noon yesterday. The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Hoyt. There will be no public reception.

An attempt was made to wreck a train near Ripon, San Joaquin county yesterday morning by opening a switch. Only the prompt action of Engineer Taylor averted a terrible accident. Kibbery is supposed to have been the motive.

Princess DeChimay, who eloped some time ago with a Hungarian gypsy musician, has been engaged to appear in tableau vivants at the Winter Garden in Berlin immediately after her divorce from her husband. She is to receive $750 a night.

The limited train on the Panhandle was wrecked near McDonald, Pa., last night. A bad rail is supposed to have caused the accident. A party of the officials of the road were on the train and their cars were thrown from the track. Chief Engineer T. D. Johnson was seriously hurt.

The Kansas legislature met yesterday with the Populists for the first time in full control of both houses and the Executive in harmony therewith. Organization was promptly effected. The message of the Governor caused considerable surprise as it made no reference to prohibitory law or to Constitutional Convention.

this court an amended petition for partial distribution and partition of the above entitled estate, and therein setting forth that a large portion of the property of which said M. D. Foley died seized and possessed, is community property and subject to distribution, and praying as follows:
That it be adjudged and determined what portion of said estate is community property and is not subject to distribution, and what portion is separate property of said deceased and subject to administration and distribution; and that said community property be set apart and delivered to your petitioner, and that said separate property be partially distributed among the heirs of said deceased, as follows: to-wit: One-half thereof to your petitioner, and the remaining half thereof to the said Johanna Foley, John D. Foley, Jesse D. Foley, Samuel D. Foley, and Anna
D. Foley, in equal parts, and that partition be made of such portions of said separate property as may be necessary to pay the amount due your petitioner as administrator of said estate, and the necessary expenses of administration, and for such other and further relief as the nature of this proceeding may require, "the hearing of which said petition for partial distribution and partition has

Mr. Wm. Jackson, who is painting the scenery, has it very near completion, and when completed it will be the finest scenery ever set in this opera house. The stupendous double deck scene is a work of art. When the piece is presented no pains will be spared in staging it, and the public will witness a performance the equal of which can be seen only in the cities.

Condensed Testimony.

Chas. H. Hood, Broker and Manufacturers Agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a cough remedy. J. D. Brown, proprietor of St. James Hotel, Fort Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail, and would rather have it than any doctor, because it always cures. Mrs. Hemming, 222 E. 25th street, Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of croup because it instantly relieves. Free trial bottles at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

PEERS DECLARED ELECTED.

In Deciding the Contest Judge Cheney Counts Out Brown's District.

In the Second Judicial District Court of Nevada, county of Washoe, F. C. Updike, contestant, vs. J. V. Peers, contestee.

DECISION.

At the general election in Washoe county in 1896 the contestant and contestee were respectively the Silver and Republican candidates for the office of Public Administrator. By the official canvass Updike received 695 votes and Peers 696 votes. By the count had on the trial of this contest, and not counting Brown's precinct, Updike received 602 votes and Peers 695 votes. The vote of Brown's precinct is 30 for Updike and 19 for Peers. If that precinct is counted Updike will have a majority of 8, if it is thrown out Peers has a majority of 3.

Several objections are made to the vote from Brown's precinct by the contestee. The only one deemed necessary to consider is mal-conduct on the part of the Election Board in that they prevented the use of the sample ballots by qualified voters in the booths while preparing their ballots. This charge is amply sustained by the proofs. Irrespective of whether there was a formal order made by the Inspectors of Election to that effect, it is perfectly plain that they agreed that no sample ballots should be taken into the booths by voters; and that the deputy constable, who was present and acting as a peace officer, understood that the Election Board had made such an order, and enforced it. It further appears that on these separate occasions this officer, or a member of the Election Board, went into a booth while a voter was preparing his ballot therein, and took the sample ballot from the booth, or demanded it of the voter, and informed the voter that he could not use a sample ballot in preparing his official ballot, and the officer in one instance after looking into the booth and demanding of the voter therein his sample ballot, stood near the booth, prevented the voter from using a sample ballot, timed the voter, who without a sample ballot was unable to prepare his official ballot, and caused the voter to vacate the booth when the time allowed for preparing his ballot had expired.

The evidence further shows that the voters so interfered with were Italians, unable to read the English language, and unable to mark their ballots without the aid of a sample ballot; that some of them had sample ballots which had been marked for them by a friend; that with such ballots they could prepare their official ballot, and that they did not know who were the candidates for Public Administrator. * * *

Is an election held under such circumstances to be upheld?

There can be no doubt that the chief aim and purpose of the Australian Ballot law is to preserve the secrecy of the ballot. It was enacted to protect the voter from intimidation and unlawful influences in the free exercise of the electoral franchise. This is manifest from every provision of the act and has been amply demonstrated by judicial decisions and the history of ballot reform. This secrecy in marking the ballot and absolute freedom from influence, inspection or intimidation while marking it, are the very essence of the law. Unless these provisions are strictly enforced a breach is made which will afford an easy method of circumventing and defeating the beneficent objects of the act. If an election officer may enter a booth to ascertain if a sample ballot is being used, every voter is subject to an intrusion and inspection absolutely inconsistent with a secret ballot. If the provisions of the act with respect to the immunity from inspection while in the booth, those wholesome regulations by which none but voters engaged in receiving, preparing or depositing their ballots shall be within the guard rail while the polls are open, can be so flagrantly ignored as they were in this instance and the election upheld, it is difficult to understand what part of the act may not be disregarded with impunity.

It is true that, by authority of the Board of Election, persons other than voters engaged in voting may enter within the guard rail. But the only purpose for which this can be done is "keeping order and enforcing the law." There is no pretense of any disorder within the booths or guard rail during this election. What law was being violated, the enforcement of which required an officer to enter either the booth or guard rail? The law authorizes the making and distributing sample ballots. The voter may lawfully demand a sample ballot on election day either before or when he receives his official ballot. There is no provision of the law defining what use he may make of the sample ballot, except he cannot vote it. An officer has no more right to enter a booth and search for a sample ballot than he has to arrest the voter on his way to the booth and search his person to ascertain if he has not a sample ballot concealed in his clothing. Whenever a person lawfully entitled to vote goes within the guard rail, receives his official ballot and enters an unoccupied booth to prepare a ballot, he takes with him absolute freedom from observation or intrusion during the period of time which he is given to prepare his ballot and while he is peacefully so engaged. * * *

Whenever officers charged with the solemn and important duties of executing the election laws attempt to enact or enforce a rule not found in the law, and which interferes with the freedom of the voter, they are overthrowing and not enforcing the law; they are consulting their own judgment as to what they think the law should be, rather than the statute books to ascertain what the law is. An election so held, no matter how much it may preserve of the forms and methods of the law is without the spirit and substance of it, and, in fact, is no election. Courts are very reluctant to reject the entire vote of any precinct. They will not do so where the irregularities relate to the formal part of the proceedings and do not affect the vote or return. But when there has been a plain violation of the law in matters vitally essential to the secrecy and purity of the ballot, courts are not only justified but every canon of construction and rule of public policy demand that the vote be entirely thrown out, irrespective of the effect upon the general result or disfranchisement of individual voters. The possible consequences of tolerating or upholding a vicious precedent are of far greater moment, as imperiling permanently the right of suffrage, than any temporary disfranchisement which may result from rejecting a single precinct because not given under the safeguards and security which the law guarantees.

For these reasons the vote from Brown's precinct is wholly excluded from this count and canvass, and it follows that the contestee, Peers, received the highest number of legal votes for the office of Public Administrator and was elected thereto.

Let judgment be entered in favor of contestee and for his costs.

A. E. CHENEY,

District Judge.

January 12, 1897.

Mrs. Hartley at Liberty.

Mrs. Alice M. Hartley, sentenced to ten years in State Prison for killing M. D. Foley, was pardoned yesterday, Justice Balknap and Attorney General Judge voting in the negative, and Governor Sadler, Justice Bonfield and Justice Massey voting in the affirmative. There were petitions for pardon and remonstrances against pardon from citizens of Reno and other parts of Washoe county presented to the board. Among the petitions for pardon were the foreman and other members of the jury which tried her. Warden Henderson of the State Prison testified as to her good behavior while in that institution, and James F. Dennis made an eloquent plea in her behalf. Her child, now about two years old, has been with her at the prison, and had she not been pardoned would probably be sent to the Orphan's Home. Rumor has it that she will leave the State when the question regarding the right of her child to a portion of the Foley estate is determined by the courts.

Assemblyman Garrard of Esmeralda.

A. Garrard, Assemblyman-elect from Esmeralda County, paid Reno a visit yesterday. He met many old friends and was kept busy shaking hands and renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Garrard is a staunch friend of Washoe County, and takes a great pride in our State institutions.

Although elected as an independent, he is a straight silver man, and claims that his own platform, which by the way he had printed and carries with him, tells where he can be found, and that he endorses every word of it. He was unequivocally in favor of W. J. Bryan for President and for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

Nevada's Electoral Vote

Monday afternoon, Hon. J. R. Ryan of Storey, Hon. B. F. Leete of Washoe, and Hon. George Russell of Elko, the Presidential Electors, met at Carson City and canvassed the electoral vote of Nevada. The vote was cast for W. J. Bryan for President, and Joseph Ryan was chosen as messenger to carry Nevada's vote to Washington.

A Bad Beginning.

An ex-copier named O'Keefe, who was pardoned by the Board of Pardons Monday, was brought in from Steamboat last night on a stretcher, he having got into a row yesterday and received a blow over the head from a crowd. He is reported dangerously injured.

A SUGGESTION.

C. A. Norcross Recommends a Law in the Interest of Humanity.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—Before this reaches you, the President will doubtless have approved an Act providing that in the Territories, on Government Reservations, and in the District of Columbia, in all cases where an accused is found guilty of a capital offense "the jury may qualify their verdict by adding thereto 'without capital punishment,' and whenever the jury shall return a verdict, qualified as aforesaid, the person convicted shall be sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for life."

I respectfully suggest the passage of a similar law by the Nevada Legislature as being in the interest of humanity and tending to cause punishment to follow more surely the commission of certain crimes.

Writers on criminology mainly agree that it is the certainty more than the severity of punishment which deters men from crime. The well known reluctance of juries to inflict capital punishment has permitted many guilty men to escape, and destroyed to some extent, that wholesome respect for the law and administration of justice which ought to prevail. On the other hand if an innocent man be convicted, as sometimes occurs, it is within the power of society to some extent to make amends.

Wanted! Much For Earth.

The janitor had conducted her through the building, and she seemed not altogether displeased with some of the apartments.

"I hope," she said, "that none of the people here keep dogs."

"Some of them do," replied the truth-telling employer.

"Are there any of us of us in on the first floor?" she asked.

"No, ma'am. But two or three people are living here."

"That's too bad. I dislike noise. It's a very nice place in many respects. But dogs bark, and children cry, and piano music, and I'm very particular about decorations."

"Well, ma'am, there's only one thing I can say."

"You can't expect to rent heaven for $60 a month."—Washington Star.

An Old Country Superstition.

In some of the southern counties of England queer superstitions are current about eating blackberries after Michaelmas day. The country people say that on Michaelmas eve the old gentleman "plants his cloven foot" on all the blackberries as yet ungathered. After this date, Sept. 29, it is unlucky to pick or eat the fruit.

The date upon which the devil "puts his foot down" against blackberry eating varies in different districts. In some it is as late as Oct. 10, by which time one would naturally suppose there are no blackberries left to stamp out. But the story of his prohibition is told in many places. Great misfortune, sickness or death will surely follow disobedience to his orders.

But why his satanic majesty should concern himself so particularly about blackberries, when so many greater matters might be said to claim his attention, none of the stories state. It may be that he considers blackberries too healthy and wishes to limit the consumption.

Useful Member of a Family.

The Portuguese say that no man can be a good husband who does not eat a good breakfast, which leads the Waterbury American to say this is a mean way of throwing upon the wife all the responsibility for the husband's goodness, for without a good wife there can be no good breakfast for him to eat. That may be right in theory, but it is wrong in practice. We know a man who has cooked breakfast the greater part of the time for the past 15 years for his family. And we violate no confidence when we say it is a good breakfast too. He is a man who loves good living, and he knows how to prepare a meal with the best of women. Yet he is a workman who puts in from 10 to 11 hours a day of hard work and the kind of work that is exhausting.—Ansonia (Conn.) Sentinel.

Her Application.

The study of difficulties presents many obstacles and difficulties to childish minds.

"Spill ferment and give its definition," requested the schoolteacher.

"Ferment," ferment, to work," responded a diminutive maiden.

"Now place it in a sentence, so that I may be sure you understand its meaning," said the teacher.

"In summer I would rather play out of doors than ferment in the school-house," returned the small scholar with much doleful frankness and a unconscious humor that the teacher found it hard to suppress a smile.—Youth's Companion.

Wooden Spoons.

In the district of Semenovsk, where wooden spoons chiefly come from, about 7,000 men make a living at the trade. The spoons are generally made from birchwood, and a skillful workman can turn out several hundreds a day. No fewer than 13,000,000 spoons are manufactured during the course of the year, which are sold at 6 to 8 rubles (12 shillings to 16 shillings) per thousand.

They find a ready market.

Wouldn't Let Them Be United.

When McKissick's cavalry were in winter quarters in front of Richmond in 1864, the following amusing incident took place: Lieutenant Jack Palmer was lecturing Tom Rodgers for hurting his horse's back. As was his custom on such occasions, he used language that was more forcible than elegant. While the lieutenant was pouring the vials of wrath on poor Tom, Frank Millwood interrupted him by saying, "Lieutenant, what do you think of Dr. Dogan?" "I think he is a first rate fellow—a perfect gentleman," answered the lieutenant. "I don't know so well about that," replied Frank. "Why so?" inquired the lieutenant. "Well," says Frank, "I got a letter from home, and it is a certain fact that they took two soldiers to Union the other day on the train, and Dr. Dogan wouldn't let them be buried in the village churchyard."

At this the lieutenant recollected his anthems and swore he had a notion to send a detail of men home to kill the doctor. "What object did he have?" continued the lieutenant. "Why," says Frank, "because they weren't dead." Just then Frank beat a hasty retreat under a shower of epithets that were more noted for their force than elegance, and poor Tom caught it worse.—Gladney (S. C.) Ledger.

Conan Doyle's Rapid Work.

Dr. Conan Doyle is a remarkable worker. Most of his time really seems to be given up to the healthy enjoyment of life. He seems, however, to be able economically to combine work with play. For instance, one may see him engaged in a vigorous game of cricket in the early afternoon, and the cricket may be followed by a brisk country walk with a friend. Returning from the walk, Dr. Doyle will say to the friend: "We dine at 8 o'clock. Perhaps you would like to take a stroll round the garden before dressing while I go upstairs." And he retires, presumably to enjoy a rest. After dinner he may be seen again quite fresh as he goes to his friend. "By the way, after a happy idea occurred to me during my walk this afternoon," he says, "I have written the outline of a new story. What a capital idea it is! I shall be able to finish it by the end of the week."

"Oh, I see," says Dr. Doyle's friend, "I shall be able to finish it by the end of the week."
